

Developing New Zealand's fourth National Action Plan: Key phases and activities

	NOVEMBER	DECEMBER - MARCH	APRIL	MAY		JUNE /JULY
	Public input on draft process	Seeking ideas for commitments	Thematic workshops	First cut of plan	Feedback on drafts	Plan finalised
Purpose	Collaborate to design the engagement process, raise awareness and build partnerships with community groups and officials.	Continue the conversation using the three priorities for NAP3 as a conversation starter. Ideas to improve open government (in the matic areas) are collected via online and face to face engagement. Engagement tools support conversation about open government.	Refine and prioritise ideas, group ideas into sub-themes. Test and refine potential commitments with public.	Develop first cut of draft plan.	Public review of draft plan.	Proposed plan considered by Ministers
Hui (kanohi ki te Kanohi)	Discuss draft plans with EAP and officials. Targeted conversations with previous participants and the EAP.	 Go where the people are, attend planned hui (for example youth voice network meetings, UN Youth session, secondary school workshop). Hui planned in South Auckland, Central Auckland, Rotorua, Hutt Valley, Wellington, Christchurch, rural Canterbury and Dunedin – details will be published on OGP website. Wellington civil society/public workshop. Library drop-in sessions. 	Initial discussion between public, and appropriate officials a bout ideas relating to each sub theme, refine ideas into priority areas. Early discussion with officials about potential proposals.	EAP, officials and the public refine proposals into Commitments and Milestones develop the first draft of plan.
Online	Draft process available for public comment Website refresh. Information on upcoming process and updates on current commitments.	Themes and ideas available online for all New Zealanders to view and comment.	Summary of workshops published for public comment.	Draft commitments published for further discussion and feedback.	Draft plan published for further discussion and comment	Action Plan published, along with commentary on draft plan.
	Documents associated with preparing the plan published throughout the process.
Social Media	Warming up to engagement Inviting ideas LISTENING, RESPONDING AND LEARNING Updates on progress and inviting participatio Ongoing review based on public feedback.

How we will involve New Zealanders in the development of the plan

Proposed themes

We will use the themes from National Action Plan 3 as a conversation starter and welcome suggestions for commitments that fall outside these areas too.

Participation in Democracy

- I know how to have my say and influence things that matter to me.
- I understand what government is and does.

Responsiveness

- I can access services when they're needed and they are responsive to my needs.
- I can have a say about policies and the services that I use.

Transparency & accountability

- I can see how and why government decisions are made.
- I trust that my personal information is safe.

AN ONGOING CONVERSATION:

The three priorities from NAP3 form a conversation starter for public engagement.

SEEKING IDEAS FOR COMMITMENTS:

Collecting ideas about how to improve open government via online and face to face engagement.

ORGANISING IDEAS:

Ideas sorted into thematic groups.

Allideas available online for public comment.

THEMATIC WORKSHOPS

Discuss and refine ideas relating to each theme to develop priority areas.

Opportunity for early discussion with officials about potential proposals.

FIRST CUT OF PROPOSED PLAN

Workshop to test proposals and refine them into potential commitments.

First cut of draft plan prepared.

PUBLISH DRAFT COMMITMENTS

Draft commitments and milestones published for public comment.

PUBLISH DRAFT PLAN

Draft plan published for further discussion and comment,
then refined based on feedback.

Ministers agree on final plan.

Proposed IAP2 Approach

COLLABORATE: public conversations about open government and what is important to citizens – what they would like to see in the next plan.

COLLABORATE: public and officials refine and prioritise the ideas into commitments.

CONSULT: Officials respond to public feedback when finalising the plan.

Public feedback provided to Ministers along with final plan for their agreement. INFORM: Provide feedback on how public input influenced the decision.

LISTENING, RESPONDING AND LEARNING

ongoing review based on public feedback.